life + style to you: every Friday

A deLuxe Getaway

Have you ever felt like you were a glamorous screen siren in another life? (We think we may have been Doris Day...she may not be glamorous, but she was always so cheery...) If you have the slightest inkling that you are living in the wrong era, the new Hotel deLuxe is the place for you. With an art deco and 40s-era Hollywood-inspired design, the hotel will provide all of the luxury that we desire and certainly deserve.

The corridors and all 130 rooms are adorned with photos of stars like Clark Gable to Audrey Hepburn and Joan Fontaine. Each floor carries a glorious theme. (Though we might be nervous showering, we would stay on the Hitchcock floor.)

In addition to the décor, sophistication meets charm with thin flat-screen televisions and HDTV (first hotel in Portland to offer full HDTV capabilities), sumptuous beds and linens, soft comforting colors, MP3 menus and MP3 listening stations in every room, high-speed wireless Internet, 24-hour room service, 24-hour business and fitness centers, Gilchrest & Soames bath products, pillow menus and a spiritual menu (Buddhist? Taoist? Catholic? Scientologist? They have the perfect bedtime reading for you!)

For late night munchies, the restaurant, Gracie's, will provide scrumptious eats using organic and locally grown produce in a most glamorous setting. And the Driftwood Room will remind patrons of a time lost where martinis were sipped ever-so-slowly and service was personal. They even have a screening room to see the latest films by local filmmakers.
