Battle of the pet-friendly properties: Jupiter Hotel vs. Hotel deLuxe

by Karin Sinkevicius

Hotel deLuxe

With a nod to Hollywood's Golden Era, Hotel deLuxe is all stately columns, art deco details, and art moderne lines.

From the restrained luxury of the aptly named Marlene Dietrich Suite to the posh amenities of a standard room, the Hotel deLuxe, a consecutive winner of Conde Nast's Traveler's Gold List: Top Hotels in the US, delights. With touches like perfect lighting, theatrical floor-to-ceiling drapes, and iPod docking stations, the historic renovation of Hotel deLuxe leaves little wanting. Located downtown, it's steps from the Max Rail for easy exploring of more distant neighbourhoods, and close to the shopping and restaurants of Nob Hill and the Pearl District. While you settle into your glam digs, your dog will surely appreciate the welcoming pet package. Included in the one-time, non-refundable pet fee of $45 is a bed and bowls, bottle of Voss water, treats, toys, and a list of dog resources in the area. There's even a doggie room service menu with options like Mediterranean Banquet, and, with advance notice, in-room canine massage can be booked, ensuring your pup feels as pampered as you do.

Best for: Those looking for a dose of old world luxury, impeccable service, and a touch of romance to their surroundings.
